

Frances Parsons' solo trip to China: Goodwill odyssey

Guangzhou, Guilin, Suzhou, and many other faraway places reached by boat, train, plane and assorted local conveyances. . . .

These are part of a six-week tour of the People's Republic of China planned by associate professor Frances Parsons of the Art Department.

Parsons' visit to China will be a first for her, but it's only one of many trips that have earned her recognition as one of Gallaudet's foremost international goodwill ambassadors.

Traveling alone, equipped with one small suitcase, a shoulder bag, a letter from Gallaudet President Jerry C. Lee and her own chopsticks, Parsons will visit schools for deaf students and organizations of deaf people in 12 cities, including the capital city of Beijing (Peking).

"I travel simply, since I prefer to be among the people of the countries I visit, rather than in tours with other Americans," said Parsons. "I am very confident that my trip to China will be a pleasant one because the Chinese are known for their friendliness."

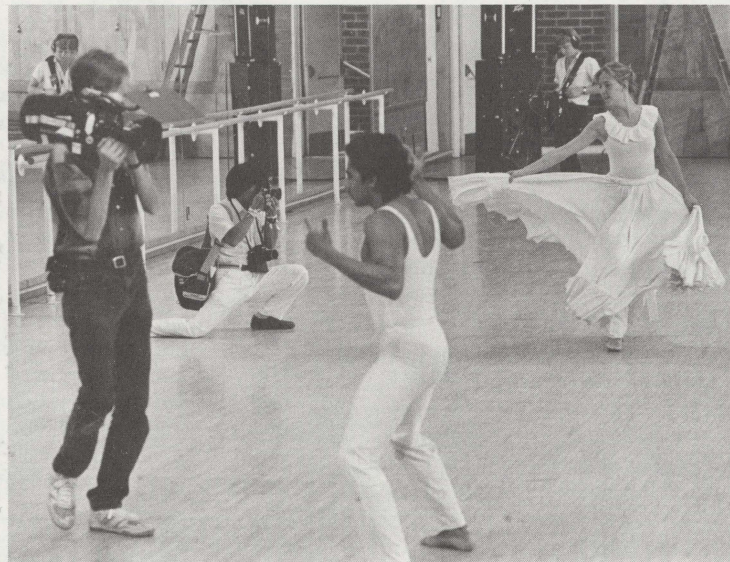

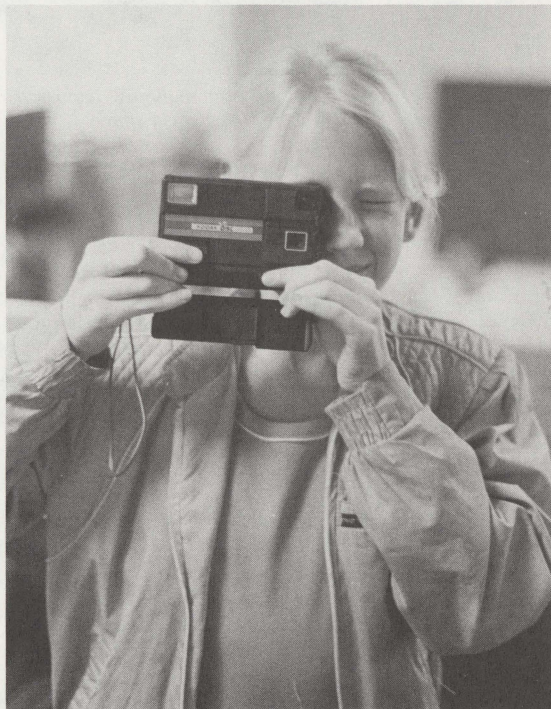

During her tour, Parsons will present talks on different methods of communication that are possible for deaf people. "I have heard that China has the best communication methods for deaf people of all the countries in the world," said Parsons. "I will be gathering information about this and, of course, sharing information about Gallaudet."

Parsons said she also plans to encourage cultural and educational exchanges between Gallaudet and various people involved in deaf education in China, including officials in the Department of Special Education.

The tour will be funded in part by the Laurent Clerc Cultural Fund, but Parsons will pay her own travel expenses. "I will have to be careful with my budget," said Parsons. "This will not permit the best accommodations." Parsons explained that hotels in China have dormitories that cost $3 or $4 a day. Because dormitory facilities can't be reserved, Parsons wrote to each hotel where she plans to stay and also to travel agencies in each city. "I wouldn't want to be without a place to stay, especially in the southern part of the country where the temperature often ranges between 99 and 105 degrees with 100 percent humidity," she said.

After her arrival in China, most of the tour will be by train and boat. "I have no reason to be afraid to travel alone, because I've done my home-

Media flock to campus 'photo opportunity'

It was a true photo opportunity, and it happened right on Kendall Green.

Seny Norasingh, a photographer for National Geographic, was here on Friday, May 2 to take part in a unique project called "A Day in the Life of America." He was one of 200 photo-journalists from 27 countries who were given 24 hours to document the lives of ordinary people all across the United States, and Gallaudet was part of his assignment.

As he snapped shots of the Gallaudet Dance Company in rehearsal, preschoolers on the KDES playground, elementary school students at lunch and a computer class at MSSD, Norasingh was trailed by TV camera crews and media people who were documenting him.

A crew from WQED-TV in Pittsburgh, making a PBS documentary on the project, was in the dance studio before Norasingh showed up, setting up shots and taping the dancers whom Norasingh would later be recording with his Nikon cameras. After Norasingh arrived and started his work, a Channel 7 video camera person moved in as well. Recording the TV crews recording Norasingh was campus photographer Chun Louie.

Norasingh had visited the campus the day before to decide where to shoot once "Day in the Life" began. He—like the other 200 photographers—also had a Kodak Instamatic as part of the national event.

Walking around KDES on Thursday with Pattie Cinelli, media relations coordinator for Public Relations, Norasingh spotted 10-year-old Maureen Yates and gave her the camera because, he said, he could "see creativity in her eyes." Her assignment: to shoot two disks of film during the same 24-hour period and send it to Denver, the central point for the project.

On Friday, Norasingh tracked Maureen as she took pictures during lunch at KDES and later as she participated in a computer class at MSSD with Brent Elementary School students.

On hand also was a crew from Channel 4 and a photographer and reporter from the Washington Post, all recording each other recording Norasingh recording Maureen.

Channels 4 and 7 both included segments on the Gallaudet picture taking on their 6 o'clock news programs that evening, and the Post ran a story on

New staff, faculty face paycheck cuts

Gallaudet staff and faculty hired on or since the first day of January 1984 face the likelihood of having an extra 5.7 percent withheld from their paychecks for work done since May 1.

The new deduction will be reflected in paychecks beginning May 20 unless Congress and the Reagan Administration agree soon on a pension package for persons who entered the federal employee system during or since 1984.

Through April 30 such employees contributed 1.3 percent of their gross salaries to the Civil Service Retirement Program and 7.15 percent to the Social Security System—a total deduction of 8.45 percent. That interim retirement program expired on April 30.

That same day, the Reagan Administration rejected a long-debated compromise measure which offered such employees Social Security benefits, a modified Civil Service pension and a voluntary tax-deferred investment plan. Administration officials argued that the package would cost too much.

Until a new package is designed and approved, all such employees will have 14.15 percent deducted from their salaries: 7.0 percent for Civil Service in addition to the 7.15 percent for Social Security.

The College is also a loser: It is obligated to match individual worker's payments to both retirement systems.

Affected Gallaudet employees—about 250 in all—were notified of the increased deductions by notes inserted in their May 6 paychecks. These individuals will also be contacted promptly by the Personnel Office regarding resolution of the continuing debate on the Hill.

Because the increased deductions also affect all Reagan Administration appointees and about half of the members of Congress, there would appear to be some motivation for quick political resolution of an issue that has already been battled about for more than two years.

Employees with any questions about the deductions should contact either John Buchanan, x5733, or Kayt Lewis, x5113.

New policy set up for photo requests

The Office of Publication and Production is initiating new procedures geared to providing better photo services to the campus.

Requests should now be filed in writing (rather than over the phone as in the past) and should be accompanied by an interdepartmental invoice to cover charges for the services requested. There are now, basically, five possibilities related to photo service requests:

1. Are you requesting photo coverage of a campus event or program? You should make that request through On the Green by calling Jim Stentzel or Nancy Moore, x5100. If a photo suggestion is considered newsworthy, they will file the request for coverage.

2. Are you requesting photos to send to an off-campus organization or publication? You should make that request through the Office of Public Relations, x5108.

3. Are you requesting photos for a planned publication? You should call the Publications and Production Office, x5858, and schedule a meeting to discuss the overall production of that publication, including the photos needed.

4. Do you simply want prints of photos already taken? You should complete a photo request form (available from the Publications and Production office, G-41 at MSSD) and submit it with an interdepartmental invoice.

5. Do you need photos taken for some other purpose? Then call Lolly Gilbert, director of Publications and Production, x5858, and explain your photo request so that she and her staff can assess that request and either assign it to a photographer or find alternative ways to meet your needs.

According to Gilbert, "We hope these new procedures will not only provide overall better service to the campus community but also serve to keep On the Green and the Office of Public Relations informed of events and activities of interest to them."

Photojournalist Seny Norasingh, recently returned from a 3-month assignment in Laos, zooms in on Maureen Yates as she works out a computer problem with a KDES classmate.

the front page of its "Style" section on Saturday, May 3.

The photographs of Norasingh and Yates are among about 200,000 shots taken of the land and people of the U.S.A. A team of editors is culling the best 300 or so to be used in a colorful, high-gloss, coffee-table book that should be ready for sale in bookstores next fall. The PBS documentary and a

Newsweek magazine spread are also in the works.

The $5 million photo opportunity, according to an earlier article in the Post, "is the most ambitious endeavor yet by the hyperenergetic young photographers and editors who have so far produced stunning pictorial books on 'A Day in the Life' of Australia (1981), Hawaii (1983), Canada (1984) and Japan (1985)."

Among Ourselves

Mary Anne Pugin, coordinator of alumni programs for Alumni Relations and Advancement, recently visited Gallaudet College alumni chapters in New York, Connecticut and Indiana, where she spoke on current developments at the College. Her visit to the Indiana chapter included providing information about Gallaudet College at the Indiana School for the Deaf.

Shirley Jordan and James Fernandes of the Department of Communication Arts recently presented a paper entitled "The Basic Communication Courses at a College for the Hearing Impaired" at the Eastern Communication Basic Course Conference held April 30 in Atlantic City.

Kenneth Tiktin of the Department of Communication Arts was recently appointed to the editorial review board of the Journal for Childhood Disorders, a publication of the Division for Children with Communication Disorders, Council for Exceptional Children (CEC). Tiktin continues his role as a lobbyist for the Political Action Network of CEC, working to effect changes at the federal level.

Lottie Riekehof of the Department of Sign Communication recently gave a workshop for sign language interpreters at Ocala, Fla.

Jack Gannon, executive director of Alumni Relations and Advancement, Deborah Sonnenstrahl, associate professor of Art History and Museum Studies; and Paul Johnston, chair of the MSSD Art Department, have been named to the National Advisory Board of Deaf Artists of America (DAA). The DAA serves as a resource for information about deaf artists across the country.

Joseph B. Lee, a retired Army chief warrant officer who later served as an administrative officer at Gallaudet, died April 14 at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington. Lee spent 30 years in the Army before retiring from active duty in 1959. He then worked at Gallaudet until his retirement in 1972. Survivors include his wife, Isabel, who worked in the College library, one daughter and three grandchildren.

SLIGE classes to begin June 2

Sign Language Instruction for Gallaudet Employees (SLIGE) will be offered from June 2 to Aug. 22 for Beginning I, II and Intermediate levels.

The schedule is as follows:

Beginning I, Mon./Wed., 1 to 2:30 p.m.; Beginning II, Tues./Thurs., 1 to 2:30 p.m. (Section I), or 2:30 to 4 p.m. (Section II); and Intermediate I, Mon./Wed., 2:30 to 4 p.m.

In order to ensure a space in class, students must complete a registration form, available through the Department of Sign Communication, Kendall Hall, room 201a. Forms must be returned to the department no later than May 28.

Staff members who are uncertain of the appropriate level to sign up for should call Lynn Jacobowitz, x5633, for a placement interview. Departments wanting classes for staff members should also call Jacobowitz.

Fall classes will run from Sept. 15 to Dec. 5. All classes are three hours per week for 12 weeks.

Annual Gallaudet Journalism Award jurors are selected

The jury for the Gallaudet Journalism Award has been chosen and will meet this month to decide the 1986 winners. Awards will be presented during the silver anniversary convention of the Junior National Association of the Deaf at MSSD in June.

The annual Gallaudet Journalism Award recognizes and rewards those journalists who have written accurate, substantive and effective articles on deafness or deaf people. Jurors consider feature stories, news articles and editorials written by reporters and writers employed by U.S. wire services, newspapers or magazines of general circulation.

Serving as chair of this year's jury will be Mervin D. Garretson, special assistant to the president, who has written about education for several journals and publications. Former principal of the Montana School for the Deaf and Blind, Garretson has served as an officer with both national and international organizations of deaf persons.

Also serving on the jury will be:

Beryl Lief Benderly, a journalist whose articles have appeared in Psychology Today, Smithsonian Magazine, Woman's Day and the Washington Post. Among her books is "Dancing Without Music: Deafness in America."

Stan Crock, regulatory news editor with the Washington bureau of McGraw-Hill World News, whose work appears regularly in Business Week. Crock worked for several years covering the Securities and Exchange Commission for the Wall Street Journal.

Robert Gorski, editor of Disabled U.S.A., a publication of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. Gorski has extensive experience with disability consumer groups and independent living programs.

Rex Lowman, poet who has served for many years as poetry judge for the Alexandria Branch of the American League of National Penwomen. A collection of his poetry, "Bitterweed," was published in 1964. A 1940 graduate of Gallaudet, Lowman teaches economics here.

Frank Kuznik, assistant editor of Regardie's. He is a veteran of other city publications, including Cleveland magazine.

Michael Moore, a 1968 graduate of Gallaudet and a member of the Gallaudet College Alumni Association. As the former executive director of the Texas Commission for the Deaf, he worked toward the promotion of better public understanding of deafness. Moore is a professor of chemistry at Northwest Campus.

Entries for this year's competition had to be items published in 1985 and submitted by Jan. 31. A $500 cash award and certificate will be presented to the writer or reporter of the best nonfiction article of 2,000 words or more; a $200 cash award and certificate will be given for the best nonfiction article of less than 2,000 words.

Information on the award program is available from the Office of Public Relations, Learning Center Annex, x5108.

Holcomb resigns as regional center director at Ohlone

Mabs Holcomb, a 1947 Gallaudet graduate, has announced her resignation as director of the Gallaudet College Regional Center at Ohlone College, Fremont, Calif., a position she has held since that center opened in October 1983.

Holcomb's health necessitated an extended leave of absence from Ohlone. She is continuing to recover from surgery and is hoping to return to Ohlone in another capacity in the future.

After graduation from Gallaudet in 1947, Holcomb began a long teaching career at state residential schools for the deaf in South Dakota, Tennessee, Indiana and Delaware, and at public schools in California. She also earned a master's degree in special education and a second master's degree in administration and special education in 1968 from California State University at Northridge.

Holcomb was an instructor in Ohlone's deaf education department and the director of the Ohlone-based federally funded interpreter training center for the western states, prior to becoming director of the Gallaudet regional center.

"Holcomb has brought to the center a wealth of information, skills and ideas," said Dr. Roslyn Rosen, dean of the College for Continuing Education and Gallaudet administrator for the five Gallaudet Regional Centers. "She will be sorely missed."

The Ohlone center served 1,955 people in its first year and 3,231 in the second year. Under Holcomb's directorship the center developed numerous programs and ties with other colleges and organizations. Seminar and workshop topics have included aging and deafness, deaf women's issues, consumerism, mental health, job retraining and parent education.

Through the Ohlone regional center, Gallaudet serves Arizona, California, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington. The center coordinates cooperative programs of training seminars, courses, conferences and consultations on deafness for deaf people and their families, professionals serving them and the general public. Networks of information-sharing and collaborations are a key element of the regional center concept.

The director position at Ohlone was filled by Ralph Neesam from August to December 1985 and since then by George Attletweed as interim director. The position is currently being advertised.

Gannon receives award from CEASD for book

Jack Gannon, executive director of Alumni Relations and Advancement, received a special award from the Conference of Educational Administrators Serving the Deaf (CEASD) at a banquet in New York City last Tuesday.

The CEASD honored Gannon with its Edward Allen Fay Award for his publication "Deaf Heritage: A Narrative History of Deaf America."

The Fay award is named for the deaf educator and editor who taught at Gallaudet for 57 years (1866-1923) and was named College vice president in 1887.

The CEASD also honored Dr. Robert G. Sanderson, a member of the College Board of Trustees and the retired head of Rehabilitation Services for the Deaf in Utah, with its Award of Merit.

Announcements

A "Welcome Elva!" reception will be held Saturday, May 17 in honor of Elva F. Loe, formerly professor of art at Gallaudet and now living in Malaga, Spain. The reception, sponsored by the College and alumnae sisters of the Delta Epsilon Society and the Art Department, will be held from 7 to 10:30 p.m. in "Ole Jim." All friends and acquaintances are invited to attend.

Anyone having a current address and phone number for either of the following organizations should contact David Wolfe at the National Information Center on Deafness, x5109: the National Association of Hearing Impaired College Students and the National Association for the Deaf/Blind.

The Gallaudet College Regional Center at Ohlone College, Fremont, Calif. is screening candidates for the position of director. The director will be responsible for implementation of a cooperative program for deaf people, their families and professionals serving them in six western states.

The position requires a master's degree in counseling, administration or related fields, plus experience working with deaf people, administering programs and fluency in sign language.

Applications should be sent by June 27 to the Personnel Office, Ohlone College, Fremont, CA 94539

The world premiere of "Quest," the new musical by the MSSD Performing Arts group which began May 8, will be performed May 14 to 17 at 8 p.m. and also at 10 a.m. on the 14th. Student actors and dancers perform in a combination of sign language, mime and dance with the accompaniment of live voices and orchestra. Tickets are available in the MSSD lobby from 12 to 1 p.m. weekdays or by calling x5801 (V/TDD). Tickets are $6 ($4 for students and senior citizens).

The Living Stage Theatre Company, a venture of Arena Stage, will present two interpreted performances of the plays "Images" and "Longstreet" on May 31 and June 7 at 7:30 p.m. "Images" is described as a play about the hopes and struggles of a disabled teenager facing the racism and prejudice of the nondisabled world. "Longstreet" exposes the spiritual poverty and racism of war. Tickets to the plays, to be performed at the Living Stage Theatre, 14th and T St. NW, are $5. For reservation-only seating, call 484-0247 (TDD) or 554-9066 (V).

work," Parsons smiled, referring to her well-used handbook on low-budget travel in China.

In addition to the Laurent Clerc Cultural Fund committee, Parsons expressed gratitude to Zhuli Wang, a doctoral candidate now studying at Gallaudet. Wang was instrumental in making several contacts with Chinese government officials and arranging Parsons' visits and lectures. The International Center on Deafness (ICD) was another valuable source of help, she said. "ICD provided slides of Gallaudet to be shown in China, and it interpreted phone calls to the Chinese embassy and to officials in Beijing," Parsons said.

As on previous tours, Parsons will send newsletters to those who wish to follow her experiences. Anyone wanting to receive the newsletters may do so by donating $20 or more to either the Gallaudet College Alumni Association (Alumni House) or to the Gallaudet World Book Fund (College Relations). Donations are tax-deductible.

Enjoy 'Happy Hour' this week or else . .

There will be no "Happy Hour" in "Ole Jim" on May 22-23, May 29-30 or June 5-6. Patrons are invited to stop by this Thursday and Friday, May 15-16, for the final "Happy Hour" of the regular academic year. "Happy Hour" will pick up again on June 12-13 and continue through August 1 except for Friday, July 4. The "hour" is from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. and is open to all employees.

Corrections

The two photographs of performers in "Mother Hicks" (May 5 On the Green, page 3) were transposed. The "Left" and "Above" references in the caption should also be reversed, therefore, for a correct identification of the people and scenes.

A headline on page 2 of the April 28 issue—"Survey of first-year Gallaudet students indicates communication preferences"—should have said "Survey of parents of first-year Gallaudet students indicates communication preferences." Students were not involved in the survey. As the article states, parents expressed their opinions about students' preferred modes of communication.

'Cornerstones' list totals 205 donors

The names of 15 donors to the 1985 faculty/staff Cornerstones Campaign were inadvertently omitted from the list published in the April 28 On the Green. The Development Office attributed the omissions to confusion arising from conversion to a new computer system.

The additional participants are:

David Pancost	Shirley Jordan
John Buchanan	Stanley Matelski
Elaine Costello	Joyce McPherson
John Day	Myra Per-Lee
Sue Ellis	Barbara Pollard
Stephen Fox	David Updegraff
Diane Hottendorf	Steve Wolk
Robert Johnson

The campaign has also benefitted from recent gifts by Mary Ann Small and Missie De Shong. These additional participants bring the current campaign totals to $46,258 from 205 donors.

Contributions are welcome through June 30 and may be sent directly to the Development Office, Learning Center Annex.

Sponsored R&D

The Office of Sponsored Programs (OSP) announces two special funding opportunities with summer deadlines.

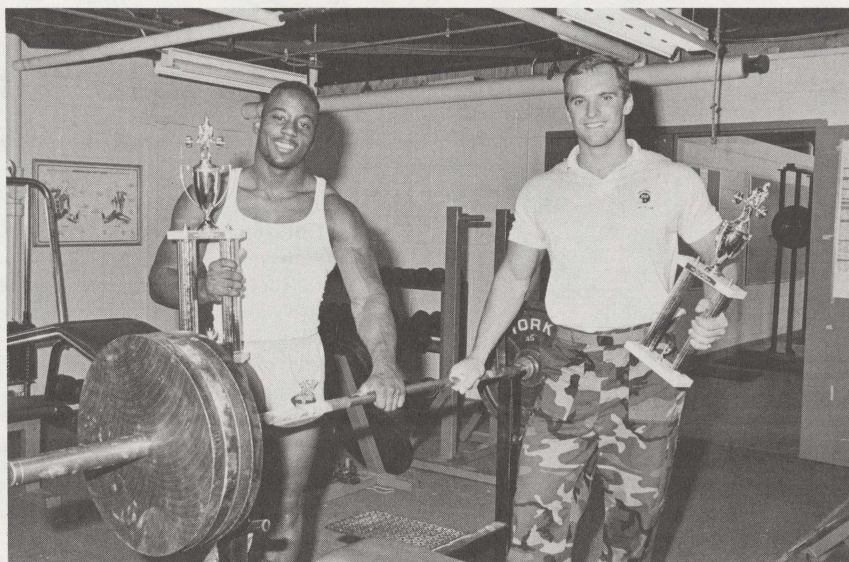

The National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) is offering "Travel to Collections" grants of up to $750 to travel to libraries, archives and museums for advanced research and scholarship studies (70 percent chance of funding). The deadline is July 15.

The Department of Education/National Institute for Handicapped Research (ED/NIHR) is offering Innovation Grants which support activities investigating problems and solutions related to disabled persons of all ages and with all disabilities. The deadline is July 1.

For additional information on these and other funding opportunities, call OSP, x5033 or x5034.

Provided below are application deadlines of selected programs that offer potential grant or contract opportunities for faculty, staff and graduate students. More details on these and other programs of interest can be obtained from the Office of Sponsored Programs, x5033 (V/TDD).

2 Grid stars capture trophies in lifting

Two Gallaudet students came away with trophies at the Powerhouse Weight-Lifting Championships in Manassas, Va. on April 26.

Freshman James Gardner finished first in the 198-pound class with a 345-pound lift in the bench press competition. Gardner played center on the 1985 Bison football team.

In the 220-pound division, freshman Daren Toman grabbed runner-up honors with a 385-pound effort in the bench press. The Columbus, Ohio native played middle linebacker for the Bison last year.

The open weight-lifting competition was sponsored by the Powerhouse Fitness Club of Manassas.

'Pace-setter' motel offers new services

The Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge in Cheverly, Md. has become the motel chain's pace-setter in providing services to hearing impaired patrons.

Those services include five closed captioned TV channels in all 164 rooms; 10 complimentary portable TDDs for use in guest rooms; 20 portable visual alert systems to notify guests of a ringing phone, a knock on the door, or the triggering of the smoke detector; and an audio loop system in the hotel's meeting room. The hotel also has a TDD reservation line.

According to the lodge's sales director, Pat Jackson, the lodge is the first in the country to offer such comprehensive services for hearing impaired travelers. "Maybe others will start implementing these services too," said Jackson. "The hotel/motel industry is like any other industry—if someone comes up with an idea and others see that it can work, they'll do it too."

Jackson conducted surveys at Gallaudet and at area deaf organizations to determine what services are most needed by deaf patrons of hotels, and then he did research on the technology available.

The motel is located at 5811 Annapolis Road in Cheverly, four miles from Kendall Green. For more information, the TDD number from the Washington area is 277-6076; from outside Washington the toll-free number is 800-447-4440.

You and Your Job

Have you moved? If you have a new home address, please notify your department secretary so that a Personnel Action Form (PAF) can be prepared and sent to the Personnel Office. If you follow this procedure, all pertinent records will be changed promptly.

In addition, if you have moved from one state to another, stop by the Payroll Department, College Hall, room B-15, and fill out the appropriate tax form, so that the correct state withholding will be reflected on your payroll check.

You may initiate both procedures as soon as you know your new address.

Seniors take titles

Two Gallaudet badminton players took first place in a recent badminton tournament sponsored by the Office of Intramurals and Campus Recreation. Charlie Harris, badminton coach of the U.S. Deaf Olympic team, provided support and assistance for the tournament.

Shan Pillai of Malaysia and Mimi Kerr of Florida, both seniors, were the two first place winners from a field of 13 men and 3 women. They each received a Black Knight Champion racket with a cover. Pillai was also named the tournament's most valuable player.

Coach Harris, a teacher in the Longwood School District, Long Island, N.Y., is interested in recruiting and developing badminton players for the 1989 Deaf Olympics to be held in New Zealand. He will be on campus in June and will offer clinics through the Office of Intramurals and Campus Recreation. Interested players can call x5361 for more details.
